the painstaking effort and time in choosing the best ten dive destinations it was a very difficult task. Obviously, no dive destination is the same, and every place has its own particularities and scenery. St.Eustatius is here placed as number one of the ten best dive locations, and it is not alphabetically placed, so that you would have a good summary of the top ten best dive paradise in the world.

The article continues to mention, that not only above water there are beautiful and impressive spots of the world, under water also is an exceptionally wonderful world. Christopher Columbus set foot on this paradise more than five hundred years ago and named the island after Saint Eustatius. STENAPA (St.Eustatius National Parks) protects the flora and fauna and the thirty top class dive sites, with other unique coral formations, and shipwrecks of the 17 and 18 century St.Eustatius is an uncrowded destination and is not catering for mass tourism St.Eustatius is home to world class diving, but not known by many.

The St.Eustatius Tourism Development Foundation would like to express its sincerest thanks and profound appreciation for the wonderful and prestigious article on the exposure and promotion of the island.
