The St. Eustatius Tourism Development Foundation and the Bethel Methodist School successfully completed a tourism awareness/education pilot project recently in which youngsters of the school were exposed to the different types of tourism on the island.

The project culminated in an exhibition at the tourist office which was attended by pupils of the elementary schools on the island, parents and many others.

Commissioner Julian Woodley and his Executive Assistant Koos Sneek presented the gift to pupils Nag-chollia Courtar and Rosalie Simmons in a special meeting whereby other pupils and Principal Ellis Woodley were present. They expressed their sincerest thanks and appreciation for the contribution made by the St. Eustatius Tourism Development Foundation.
